1

Paired with a reversible Keystone Weaving plaid, the "Camille Loveseat" from French Heritage is French Country at its most fashion-forward (frenchheritage.com).

2

With a straight back and legs crossed, Christopher Guy's "Chris-X Chair #30-0061" is the most ladylike seat in the house (christopherguy.com).

3

This lacquer-and-walnut "Crescent Console" is from the final Barbara Barry Realized by Henedon collection (barbarabarrycompany.com).

4

The surf-fused ground of the "Dune Blue" sisal rug contrasts with a woven pattern in natural sisal; Barclay Butera Lifestyle for Merida (meridameridan.com).

Michael S. Smith's "Shaw Side Table" is just one of 39 pieces in the designer's first retail collection for Baker (bakerfurniture.com).

Objects of affection

Celebrating the oft-overlooked beauty in mundane items, product and interior designer Karen Singh (karensinghdesigns.com) launches a rug collection with Carini Lang (carinilang.com) called "Everyday Objects." The first design, the textural "Key to My Heart," is inspired by her collection of keys of forgotten origin.

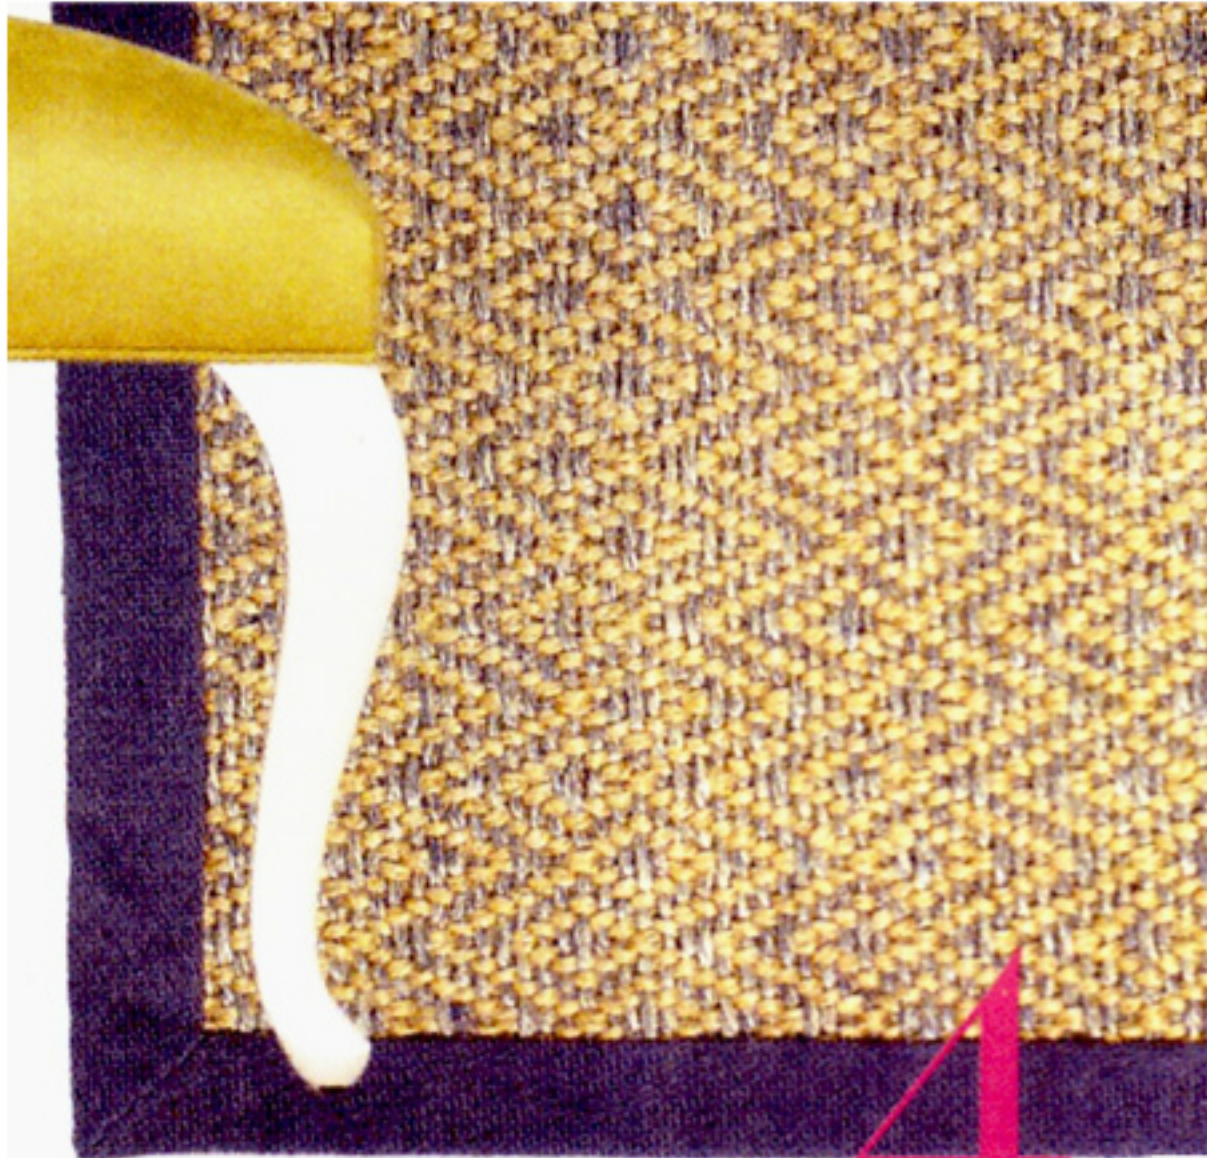

Iman

Fashioning a new fabric collection

The iconic model, who identifies most with being a homemaker, has entered the home decor market as she's always wanted to—by starting with a fabric line, Iman Home. Each pattern, designed with P.K. Lifestyles (available at calico.com), "has part of my DNA," she says. From left: "Riviera in Flight," "Deauville Dance," and "Zahra Leaf." ▶
